Genetic Modification – The Sad Misunderstanding of Plant Nature

Public lecture and one-day workshop
with Craig Holdrege

Friday 17th October 7.30 pm Cost: £5 (£4 conc.)
Saturday 18th October 10.00 am-5.00 pm Cost:
£20 (£15 conc.)

Venue: 'The SPACE', Lansdown, Stroud, Glos. Craig Holdrege author of 'A Question of Genes – Understanding Life in Context,' is a leading authority on the holistic life sciences. On this, a rare visit to the UK, he will develop a phenomenological understanding of plant nature and show how tampering with its genetic make up will at best alienate the plant from its true context and at worst cause untold ecological suffering. An unmissable opportunity to work with a leading Goethean scientist.

NB: If you are interested in attending the workshop you will also need to be present at the evening lecture as it will include important background information. Numbers will be limited.

Early booking advised. FFI contact: The Biodynamic Agricultural Association (BDAA)

Part 6 of the UNA report Poverty, health and social integration.

Does the council's Local Agenda 21 document include sections on poverty?

Yes. Each of the seven councils (county + six districts) has adopted a different LA21 document. All seven are based on 'Sustainable Gloucestershire (The Biggest Issue)' (Vision 21's LA21 document), which contains several sections on poverty and poverty-related issues (housing, health, food, employment, transport). In particular, the county council's document contains a 'sustainability checklist', which emphasises the need to protect those affected by poverty of housing, employment, energy, food, transport or education.

Does the authority have a published anti-poverty strategy?

Gloucester City council does; the other districts do not. However, they all have strategies on related subjects, such as affordable housing or 'Warm and Well' energy strategies.

Is there any strategy or process whereby work on the council's anti-poverty strategy is being linked to its work on sustainable development (e.g. through a joint working group)?

Not yet, although Gloucester City council is attempting to do so (presumably, this question only applies to Gloucester, since none of the other districts have a published anti-poverty strategy).

Have there been any concerted programmes or projects to develop the involvement of poorer communities in work on environmental action or Local Agenda 21?

Yes: examples include Cheltenham Borough Council's 'Lower High Street' regeneration and 'Hester's Way' projects and Gloucester City's 'neighbourhood project' at Podsmead. Gloucester City has also provided help and support for the existing environmental centre/city farm at St. Aldate's church. Vision 21 has been involved in all the projects: we feel that these projects provide a valuable link between poorer communities and environmental 'awareness through action', whilst simultaneously helping to strengthen the communities themselves. Some of the other districts have been involved in similar projects, but 'poorer communities' are obviously more numerous in Gloucester and Cheltenham (Gloucestershire's largest conurbations).

“Sustainable Gloucestershire? From Vision to Action” A Vision 21 Conference 5 April 2003

A questionnaire designed to find out people’s priorities and concerns for the local environment was circulated throughout Gloucestershire during February 2003.

The questionnaires were sent to Vision 21 Association Members, Gloucestershire Organisations in the EDGE Magazine and Parish, District, Borough and County Councils.

Here are the conclusions drawn from the 40 questionnaires returned by May 2003.

Overall, the results of the questionnaires are very encouraging. Energy and water saving measures are frequently used and recycling of household waste is relatively high. The low subscription to green energy supplies and low recycling of plastics and cardboard are recognised as a concern by respondents in their desire for further information on both these issues.

(We will follow up your concerns and endeavour to find suitable contacts in future editions of 21 Today)

Increased traffic was given as the main reason for the declining quality of life in Gloucestershire. However the majority of respondents travelled by car to work and/or school. Although some have no choice because this the use of the car is essential for their job or the public transport is inadequate, unless individuals make a concerted effort to change their habits the quality of Gloucestershire will continue to decline.

Nevertheless the Council has a key role to play. The questionnaire results highlight that in order to reduce the use of the car, public transport must be made cheaper, quicker and more convenient and more measures should be taken to encourage cycling, in particular off-road cycle lanes. Furthermore respondents believed that local authorities should tackle waste problems through reducing packaging and increased recycling schemes rather than finding new landfill sites.

To conclude, the findings show that a significant majority of the respondents are taking significant steps in the road to creating a more sustainable Gloucestershire. However, it should be noted that those participating are more likely to be green-minded and community active. Therefore the results of the questionnaire should not be considered representative of Gloucestershire as a whole.

(If any of you would like a full copy of the survey results please contact the Vision 21 Office on 01242 224321)

We would like thank Nicola Gregg, Vision 21 volunteer for analysing the results of the survey. Thanks Nicola!

The Joseph Rowntree Foundation has published a report drawing on eight case studies of Local Agenda 21.

Local Agenda 21 - Community Planning and Neighbourhood Renewal, considers what lessons could be transferred from local authorities’ past experience with LA21 and their new duty to produce Community Strategies.

Greening Up Gloucester!

Over the last few months we have begun to establish a Green Party in Gloucester. We are thinking of organising a Green Fayre at Brunswick Garden end March/early April 2004.

Would you be interested in taking part? Do you know others who may be interested? Do you have any recommendations?

There has been little 'Green' activity in Gloucester and all such initiatives need as much promotion as possible in the city.

Garden wildlife CD

A new computer CD produced by English nature and published by the Plant Press is packed with help and advice on wildlife- friendly gardening, plus stunning wildlife pictures. "Gardening with wildlife in mind" is a PC CD-rom available from The Plant Press, 10 Market Street, Lewes, BN7 2NB at 9.99 plus £ 1.50 p&p or from major computer stores.

More than 80 popular garden pest and weed control products are to be outlawed by the 24 July and will have to be disposed of by local authorities. From Christmas the ban extends to gardeners who have the chemicals stored in the shed.
